The True Costs of Medicare Plans

When picking the right plan, knowing where you spend the most is important.

Here's what you need to know:

- Part B Premiums: What you pay monthly for Medicare Part B - this can vary based on your income levels.
- Plan Premiums: What you pay each month for your Medicare plan.
- Drug Costs: What you pay for your prescription drugs based on your dosage and refill frequency.
- Out-of-pocket Medical Expenses: What you pay when you receive care. This includes the copayments, coinsurance, and deductibles.

With Healthpilot, it is easy to see all these costs for any plan on our site. Calculating all of your estimated costs allows us to recommend a plan that not only meets your healthcare needs but may also save you money.

Pro Tip

Consider more than just plan premiums. Low premiums could mean higher drug costs or medical deductibles, increasing your overall expenses. On the other hand, plans with premiums may offer more comprehensive coverage and lower out-of-pocket costs.

Enroll With Confidence

Healthpilot can help compare the costs across different Medicare plan options. This allows you to make an informed decision and potentially save a significant amount of money. Here's how:

This view allows you to be confident in your decision, see potential savings, and apply for the coverage you need - all in one place.

Pro Tip

It's important to check your Medicare plan coverage every year. Insurance carriers can change what plans cover and new healthcare laws could impact you. Changes in your health, updates to your medications, or changes in your finances could impact which plan is right for you.

<sup>1</sup>Healthpilot conducted an internal study of our customers from October 2024 to December 2024 and compared their previous Medicare Advantage plan with the Medicare Advantage plan they chose to enroll in through Healthpilot. We calculated savings by taking the difference in total estimated Medicare plan costs between both plans. Our costs estimates include plan premiums and Part B Giveback benefits, drug costs, and out of pocket medical spending. We estimated the costs for services the customer would likely obtain utilizing our proprietary technology that performs predictive modeling based on the information the customer shared with Healthpilot.
